School Merger
Closer to Reality

Merger of Sierra Madre's public school system with Pasadena's elementary schools, strongly urged by some residents, strongly opposed by others, moved a step closer to actuality this week.

The Sierra Madre School Board, noting that educational costs continue to rise at a rate which threatens to outstrip the community's ability to pay the bills, voted to launch a study of the annexation problem. This, in the belief that annexation to Pasadena might provide a lasting solution to the cost problem.

IT WAS a cautious first step, with no commitment to an irrevocable course. The Board will invite Dr. C. C. Carpenter, assistant county schools superintendent, to attend the next meeting (July 7) and explain the annexation process. The Board, with two newly-elected members seated for the first time, will then decide whether to have the county undertake a comprehensive annexation survey.

Board President Kenneth Bush, queried after Monday's meeting, said he regarded annexation to Pasadena's schools as "inevitable," because of rising schools costs. A limited, personal check of the situation, Bush said, indicated there would be "savings all along the line" if Sierra Madre's schools were taken in to the Pasadena system. And these savings, Bush added, must be made, if the present high quality of education is to be maintained.

RETIRING BOARD members Newell Barrett and Mrs. Martha Coutant pointed out that this would tend to make teaching costs appear larger than they actually are, and asked that this be pointed out in the final budget.

A new teachers' salary schedule which will hike annual pay an average of $600, was adopted this week by the Sierra Madre School Board.

The schedule is described as an effort to bring salaries of local educators more nearly into line with those paid by California cities of comparable size.

Base pay for a starting teacher now will be $4,500 per year; base pay for the highest classification will be $5,550. Maximum salary for a teacher in the highest category will be $7,630.

THE BIGGEST increases go to teachers in the starting categories; lowest to those in the higher classifications. Governing factors in arriving at the new pay scale are training, special work, degrees held and years of service.

A complicated formula splits the teaching staff into four groups, in which there are 12 separate pay "steps," each providing for additional payments of $160 per year over base salary.

HEARD Jackson state that unexcused absences of pupils cost Sierra Madre schools some $75 last month in allotments from the state. He urged that all parents send notes to the schools explaining reasons for absences, as required by the state.

VOTED TO HAVE soil tests made of ground at Sierra Mesa School for foundation purposes, as necessary first step to design of new structures.

HEARD A report from Miss Betty Newton, principal of Sierra Mesa School, on proposed new mental health program for the city, county and state.

VOTED THANKS to Mrs. R. A. Pratt for her gift of a 10-year collection of National Geographic magazines and maps to the school libraries.

New District
School Office
Plan Studied

A desire for school district offices located off school property was indicated by Supt. Lowell D. Jackson in an item in the 1958-59 tentative budget.

He proposes that $960 received each year from the county for rental of a Sierra Mesa School classroom for a special project be used to rent a district office.

The county project may be moved to Sierra Madre School, he said, and take over the space now occupied by the district offices. The office now occupies what was the kindergarten wing of Sierra Madre School.

Salary Increase
Proposed for Supt. Jackson

A change in the school district's procedure of allocating costs, and an increase in salary for Superintendent Lowell D. Jackson, were revealed in a limited discussion of the proposed 1958-59 budget.

The proposed increase—$580 per year—the same as the teachers'—would raise the superintendent's salary to $11,580 per year. The allocation change would charge only half the salary to administrative costs; the other half would be charged to instruction.

Retiring Board member Martha Coutant pointed out that this would tend to make teaching costs appear larger than they actually are, and asked that this be pointed out in the final budget.

"VERTICAL" SWIMMERS had a rare time Memorial Day when 411 Sierra Madrans packed the new pool beyond capacity. It was almost impossible to swim other than in a vertical position during times when the pool was crowded. A total of 170 braved the chilly weather Saturday to try out the pool and 185 went swimming Sunday. Shown "mugging" the camera are, from left, Nancy Wilson, Linda Vejar, Recreation Director Dave Sommers, Evelyn Serrano, Peggy Martin, Mary Serrano, Danny Tyler, Timmy Tyler and Paul Anthony.

Kiwanis
Breakfast
Plans Set

"Getting to Know You" is the theme of this year's Community Breakfast which will feature genuine silver dollars for only 89 cents, a big variety of exhibits and a breakfast fit for the hungriest trencherman.

The breakfast, sponsored by the Sierra Madre Kiwanis Club, will be June 14 from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Memorial Park.

If you haven't yet bought your $1 breakfast ticket, you may do so by contacting any member of the Kiwanis Club. The menu this year will include hot cakes, sausage, orange juice and all the coffee you can drink.

Several displays by local industries and civic groups will explain the purpose of their organizations and how they contribute to the overall welfare of the community.

If you're interested in a real bargain, you can buy a silver dollar at the breakfast for only 89 cents, and later cash it in for $1.50 in merchandise in participating local stores. This offer is good until closing time on June 18.

Complete details will be published in the Sierra Madre News next week.

90 'Citizens of Hope'
To March for Funds

"Citizens of hope," more than 90 strong, are set to march on Sunday, June 8, in Sierra Madre for the funds needed by the City of Hope for its humanitarian work.

Led by Judge Albert H. Miller, local volunteers will join with more than 50,000 others in 100 Southern California communities to stage the biggest Hope Sunday in the history of the free Medical Center.

THE HOPE Sunday army will seek contributions to erase a $500,000 City of Hope deficit and to enable the Medical Center to continue its fight against catastrophic diseases.

Among the doorbell ringers, Judge Miller announced, will be a "mystery volunteer" whose identification will mean a valuable gift for a donor. Transistor radios, household appliances and many other items have been donated by merchants for this purpose.

Art's 'Little Leaguers' to Exhibit Here

The walls of the Sierra Madre Library Art Gallery will be jumping this month. Variety, originality, enthusiasm, and a certain youthful something is bound to be in evidence.

After a season of adults offering a mixed menu (to say the least), and one show limited to college students, art's little leaguers are going to have a chance. All exhibitors for the June exhibition will be from Sierra Madre and Hastings Ranch elementary schools, kindergarten to sixth grade inclusive.

The children's show will open Saturday afternoon, with a public reception from 2 until 5 o'clock. Cookies and punch will be served. Schools represented, and the teachers making the selections, are:

Sierra Madre, Miss Olson; Sierra Mesa, Miss Betty Newton; St. Rita's Parish School, Mother Inez; Ascension Parish Day School, Sister Noel; Don Benito and Eugene Field Elementary Schools, Brooks Morris.

Media will include water color, oil (one item), crayon, chalk, finger-paint, and time will tell what else. The pictures will not be officially offered for sale, but it may be possible to make a deal with the artists.

Richards Outpolls
Top GOP Candidate

A good turnout of voters in Sierra Madre Tuesday approved the Pasadena school bonds issues and in general followed the state-wide trend in balloting.

A total of 3,482 Sierra Madrans cast ballots, about 2,100 on the GOP side and 1,300 on the Democratic.

Total registration in Sierra Madre, according to City Clerk Marie Warfel, now exceeds 5,000.

AMONG SURPRISES was the large total vote cast for State Sen. Richard Richards who polled more ballots—1,211—than did his closest GOP opponent, Bradford Trenham, who captured 778 votes.

Big winners here were the School Bonds, Peter J. Pitchess for sheriff, Frank G. Bonelli for First District supervisor and Frank Lanterman for assemblyman.

ANOTHER FACT, no surprise, is that Congressman Edgar W. Hiestand is an exceedingly popular fellow in Sierra Madre. Nearly 300 Democrats, for example, voted for Hiestand in preference to his two opponents, Rudd Brown and William Stetham. He was unopposed on the Republican ticket.

Enroll Now
For Summer
Nursery Care

Plans for the summer session at the Sierra Madre Community Nursery School are nearing completion, according to Mrs. Marjorie Green, school director. The dates will be June 23 through August 8.

The school setting is especially adapted to hot weather activities, Mrs. Green said. Most of the half acre of play space located on the city's water property is covered with grass and protected with many large shade trees. The large modern building is insulated against heat and the cement terraces are roofed.

In addition to the regular school activities, there will be extra provisions made for quiet activities on hot days, with plenty of opportunities for water play.

Two large metal water tables made by the fathers are fine for sailing boats or just splashing. The four large sand boxes are shaded with roofs of ivy or aluminum, and filled with beach sand. Children may enroll on a two-, three- or five-day basis for the summer school and parents may participate on a flexible plan.

For further information call the school office, ELgin 5-1655, between 9 a.m. and 12 noon or between 2 and 4:30 p.m.

Pack 381
To Participate
In Scoutoree

Members of Cub Pack 381, sponsored by the Sierra Madre PTA, will be among thousands of scouts participating in the "Scoutoree" in the Rose Bowl this Saturday.

The local pack will have a toy-making demonstration booth. Toys completed by the boys will be donated to the children's section of a hospital.

Over 300 demonstration booths will be assembled on the floor of the Rose Bowl, with more than 10,000 scouts participating.

In addition, there will be a scouting stage show in one area of the Rose Bowl and continuous band concerts.

On the Rose Bowl stage, special shows will be presented both afternoon and evening, with professional acts by Hollywood stars and by members of the Order of the Arrow.

In the special events area will be staged displays by the Air Force, Boy Scout groups and military organizations.

Children under 14 years of age will be admitted free. The price to others is $1, and the show will go on from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Funeral Services
Set Sunday for 55-Year Resident

Kensuke Takasugi, a resident of Sierra Madre for 55 years, died early Tuesday morning following a lingering illness. He was 81 years old.

He is survived by his wife, Suma, 308 N. Adams, Sierra Madre; one son, Kingo, Sun Valley; and two daughters, Pomoye and Mary, both of Whittier.

Funeral services will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Buddhist Temple, Central Ave. at First St., Los Angeles.

DR. GEORGE GROTH JR. receives check for $100 from the Women's Club to help buy special furniture for the pediatric ward at the Sierra Madre Hospital. Presenting the check is Mrs. William Stoddard, left, and Miss Clara Sykes.

Editorial

Who Runs the Schools?

If there was any doubt in anybody's mind about who runs our schools, the recent School Board election should dispel that doubt for all time.

You—the taxpayer, voter, critic and constant watchdog—run the schools. For better or worse, frequently the latter.

A good candidate, an incumbent and an effective School Board member was defeated, for apparently he had displeased you, the voter, in one or more ways.

YOU, THE taxpayer and voter, are the one who complains about laxity in the schools, about poor curriculum, about outside activities that interfere with the school program and about a dozen and one other items that displease you.

But who, in the final analysis, determines our school program? Who decides whether courses should be easy or tough? Or whether we should have a released time program for religious training?

You do, of course. This was graphically illustrated in a recent article in LOOK MAGAZINE. As a result of extensive research, LOOK was forced into the conclusion that the professional educators do not run the schools. The following significant facts were pointed out:

1. Parents, more than educators, prefer easy schooling. A recent Gallup Poll shows that 90 per cent of school principals and only 51 per cent of parents say the public schools demand too little work from students.

2. Parents insist upon automatic promotion. "Some very brave superintendents hold back or refuse graduation to inferior students," says Dr. Garford Gordon, research director for the California Teachers Association. "But those superintendents keep moving from town to town before they are pushed."

3. Most pressures for nonacademic courses begin outside the schools. "School Boards have become victims of pressure groups," says Carl B. Munck, president of National School Board Association. "In my 16 years as a school-board member in Oakland, Calif., as well as in my work with other school boards, I've seen that the public, not the professionals, puts on the pressure for extra courses."

4. Parents like "practical" courses and "practical" teaching. "Many critics," says LOOK, "have proceeded on the belief that most parents are weeping and wailing for a return to stern Three-R teaching. This is not true. . . . While parents SAY they do not approve 'progressive' education, a majority of them look with great approval at any course or way of teaching which relates learning to practical life experience."

WHAT KIND of courses do most parents ask for their children? Said a school board member from Logan, Utah: "Courses they can pass—period."

From this survey, it looks as if the people truly run our schools, which is the only way possible in a democratic society.

But the results can be horrifying, as countless examples in the past have illustrated. They can also be gratifying in the extreme—when the taxpayers and voters are sufficiently enlightened.

The LOOK article also explores the area of enlightenment in the following paragraph:

"BARELY HALF of the high school and college graduates could identify the Bill of Rights. Only 35 per cent could give a single advantage of our economic system over Russia's. Only 40 per cent could work the equation '6 is to 18 as x is to 72' in their heads. Only 9 per cent could identify the philosopher Schopenhauer. Only 38 per cent knew the chief religion of Pakistan. And only a bare one-fourth knew the chemical composition of table salt."

This, it seems to me, is a rather discouraging state of affairs in a changing world, a world in which simply knowing how to "sell yourself" will no longer suffice.

"If the schools are to meet the challenge," LOOK concludes, "Americans must face up to their own deficiencies. They must change their attitude toward intellectual activity. They must value and reward scholarship. They must insist on winning academic programs as well as winning athletic teams. The schools are, and always will be, exactly what the people make them."—H.W.E.

Team Has 'Poor' Record

By Robert G. Spivack

THE TEAM FROM TEXAS—At Tammany Hall, back in the days when I covered New York politics, they used to say that the more the Tiger changed the more it was the same. The same thing applies, I believe, to the so-called Texas leadership in the Congress, the team of Sam Rayburn and Lyndon Johnson.

At the beginning of this year Johnson invited some newspapermen in for what his aides cynically call "the treatment." I was one of them. Our talk was pleasant enough and I felt, as I have long felt, that Johnson is a skilled tactician—a good man to have on your side if you want to maneuver a bill through Congress.

But Johnson insists he is more than that, that he is a "liberal" with a broad national outlook but not so impractical he forgets what is important for the folks back home. Johnson made a big point of the fact that Negroes attended a dinner honoring him at a Houston hotel which had hitherto been segregated.

While I don't for a moment underestimate Johnson's capacities for holding the Democratic party together, we had an example the other day of the sort of high-handed "non-leadership" that has come to characterize the Rayburn-Johnson team.

Both men, without any consultation with their followers or without a party caucus, decided to go along with the Administration's course of planned "inaction" in the field of tax cuts. Maybe this is not the time for a tax cut; it depends on whose taxes are cut and how they are cut. But certainly the issue merited more discussion among party members than either Rayburn or Johnson allowed.

Rayburn's idea of running things democratically apparently was to discuss the question with Robert Anderson, whom he calls that "great" Secretary of the Treasury. And that's where it ended.

THE DO-NOTHING RECORD—Well, it's six months now since the start of the second session of the 85th Congress. What has been accomplished by the Texas leadership?

This is the record, in brief, of what's happened: CIVIL RIGHTS—nothing. (By mutual consent the Republican and Democratic Party bosses agreed to shelve the issue; the Administration sought nothing and the Justice Department offered no proposals.)

SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION—nothing. (The Administration didn't even renew its 1957 school-building program; a coalition of Dixie Democrats and Northern Republicans killed a motion by Rep. Thompson (D. N.J.) to revive the President's old bill.)

RECIPROCAL TRADE—no Senate action; reported out by House committee. (On the very day the President delivered his nation-wide appeal for a more liberal trade policy, the White House reduced oil imports by 58,000 barrels per day in response to pressure from Johnson and the Texas oil interests.)

UNEMPLOYED PAY—a meaningless House bill would extend federal help only to states which ask for it; since most state legislatures are out of session probably only six states would qualify for any help during the current recession.

THE LIST of bills bogged down or dying in committee or amended to the point where they have lost their meaning is a long one. But whether it's civil rights or anti-recession tax cuts, the relationship between the Texas team and the Administration remains cozy. Everything is done by pre-arrangement.

Americans for Democratic Action, which would like to work with the Democrats if litical opposition, had this to say of the tax cut decision:

"President Eisenhower and his Democratic Texas yes-men have joined together as a reactionary coalition to prolong the recession by at least a year and to condemn millions of American workmen to months of idleness without help."

The National Committee for an Effective Congress, which has been keeping tabs on Johnson, says the Senate leader "would not dream" of leading a protectionist movement "but, as a Texas politician, he would like to provide a sanctuary for the petroleum industry."

They say there is a "new" Johnson this year. But on the basis of the record it looks like the same old Texas team that Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver found something of a burden to carry in 1956.

Around the Square

By Tommy Ann Miller

With Shippey family members scattering themselves to other parts of Southern California, it's nice to know that at least one member, Miss Louisa Shippey, plans to continue living in Sierra Madre. Miss Shippey came here in 1929, shortly after her literary brother, Lee.

As the score stands now, the trunk of the family tree—the Lee Shippeys—dwell in Del Mar, and their branches are situated thus: son, Charles, and daughter, Mrs. Bob Thomas, are in San Diego; Hank and his wife live in Azusa, and last weekend, the offsprings' exodus was completed when Frank and Osefa Shippey and four children sold their Mira Monte home and moved to Coronado.

"AND HOW is the new baby?" asked the neighbor. "My, I bet you'll like having a little brother to play with!" "Well," replied the blase 7-year-old, "if I'd known you were going to be that interested, I'd have passed out some chocolate cigars."

ISABELLA DESTINATION. A dinner party at Creighton's helped speed the departure of Marie Borgieis, who dined with Rose Baldwin and Edith Coy before flying to Isabella, Mich., Sunday. Miss Borgieis, a nurse at the British Home, will round out her two-month vacation with a little gall bladder surgery at the Manistique Hospital there.

NEWCOMERS from County Down, Ireland, Eric and Margaret "Peg" Jefferson, are looking for a house to rent so they can locate near Mrs. Jefferson's sisters, Trudy Cowell and Nan Owen. The Jeffersons (he's a quantity surveyor) and sons, Hugo, 18, and Carson, 3, sailed over on the Queen Elizabeth last week.

Their immigration raises the family total to 21—counting kiddies.

HELLO! BROWN. A Gypsy word, Sarishann, meaning "hello" is the middle name of John and Jackie Brown's daughter, born May 26 at St. Luke Hospital. The 9-pound 11-ounce baby, whose full name is Maris Sarishann Brown, joins an older sister, Jenny. Her daddy recently displayed some water colors and pen and ink sketches at the Library.

SNARED SEA FOOD. The Norman Dumas and Carl Griffin families pulled Spot Fin and Corbena from the surf in front of their respective trailers at Oceanside on the holiday weekend. The Dumas (who fished with the visiting Fred Richters Friday) have been beaching at Oceanside for two decades—first in a tent and now in a trailer.

WORD FROM Toy Stoddard that although a serious heart condition keeps husband, Bill, out of circulation, he's in good spirits. Bill, who formerly owned the Seaside Station here, has been pretty much confined to bed for the past few months.

ISABELLA VACATION. A successful three-day maiden voyage for the Clarence

Wares' new trailer, when they journeyed to Kern County and parked by Lake Isabella (watery grave of the old town of Isabella)—accompanied by children, Jimmy and Judy.

REPORT OF A refreshing revolt against "togetherness" is the Carter Ave. father who built two workshops—one for himself and one for his 16-year-old son "because there are two of us—and it saves a lot of argument."

ALSO ON THE ill list is Mrs. Ike Fulton, now of Yucca, Calif. (She recently suffered two strokes) according to the Gene Wikowskys, who drove out to see her Saturday. The Fultons, long-time localites, gave up their Laurel Ave. home and moved to the desert community last year.

WORDS ABOUT pictures from Lea McCarty in his Santa Rosa Studio. The ex-Sierra Madre ceramic craftsman (turned full-time artist) just sold a series of Old West gunfighter oil paintings to Knott's Berry Farm, probably on display now. Also, some articles about Lea are scheduled for forthcoming Pageant and Arizona Highways magazines—along with seven color pages of his paintings in the November issue of the Arizona publication.

In addition to this (whew!) Lea has done some magazine covers, sold four Westerns to True West, and still finds hours for sculpturing.

Your Congressman . . .

States Can Help Selves Without Federal Aid

By Edgar W. Hiestand Rep., 21st District

States Rights, as a political issue in the United States, is something like the "Polish question" in Europe. It is a perennial question. On May 14, in a letter to House Speaker Sam Rayburn, President Eisenhower once again moved to decentralize the Federal government and to strengthen States Rights.

He outlined a three point program which would:

(1) Halt Federal grants for vocational education, (2) discontinue grants for construction of sewage disposal plants in local communities, and (3) reduce the 10 per cent Federal tax on local telephone service, to assist the States in assuming financial responsibility for these programs.

We want vocational education, but why Federal instead of local and tailored to local needs? We want water purification and sanitary sewage disposal, but since the adoption of the present law, towns, cities and communities have stopped their own plans, to await Federal hand-outs. Local communities should, can and will do these things, if government grants are halted. Why should civic projects in other states or communities be at your expense? Federal money is your money.

ONE OF the most pleasing results of my sixth annual questionnaire was the vast number of letters and notations that came in with the returns. The many constructive comments and scores of personal compliments were gladly and humbly received. Having been your Congressman for nearly six years, I can tell you, it's mighty nice to be appreciated.

The early years of Congressman's career are tough ones. When he arrives brand new in the nation's capital,

"It's all Greek" to him. It takes experience and vast study, which can only come with time, before a member of Congress can serve his constituents with maximum effectiveness.

I love California. I love being there and meeting and conferring with you good people of the 21st District. Yes, I even love the campaigning there, but clearly my job just now is here in Washington, representing our District in the House of Representatives. This is a period of heavy legislative pressure. I'm sure you understand, and I hope I've merited your continued confidence.

THE ANTI-AMERICAN riots in South America, which were centered around Vice President Nixon's "good will" tour, were Communist inspired and Communist led. There were, of course, other factors involved, and the Communists took advantage of them all. But the mob violence, the shocking and repulsive spitting, the grave personal danger to Dick and Pat Nixon, were prearranged tactics worked out by Communist members.

J. Edgar Hoover made, it seemed to me, one very telling point in his recent discussion of communism here at home. He said the rioting in South America should be a lesson to all United States citizens.

He said it showed how much a communist minority could accomplish, and how much wild feeling they could seem to whip up, by using tactics which the majority of the people deplore and condemn.

The grave danger today is that it is fashionable, in some circles, to minimize the communist danger . . . not only abroad, but here at home. A sort of revival of Truman's "good old Joe" (referring to Joe Stalin) attitude. Too many Americans seem to think it's smart to tolerate communism. They think they're being broadminded if they make light of communism, and talk sneeringly of witch hunts.

FBI Chief Hoover insists, and no one should know better, that the underground Communist Party of the U.S., operating through various front organizations, is an inseparable arm of the international conspiracy headed up in Moscow.

Opinion in Washington is that the unpleasant incidents of the Nixon tour may have been just the needed jolt to awaken us to the problems and dangers existing South of the Border. Furthermore, a reporter who accompanied the vice president's party told me privately that the spitting and other personal insults to the vice president and Mrs. Nixon, would in his opinion, reflect unfavorably on communism throughout the world.

Garden Club Joins Descanso Benefit

Mrs. Carl H. Gerke, 602 Mariposa, is in charge of this area's ticket sales for a benefit at Descanso Gardens, sponsored by California Garden Clubs, Inc., 12th District, scheduled for June 26.

Plans were discussed for the event at the annual California Arboretum Foundation, Inc., at the Arboretum. Sierra Madre Garden Club, a member of the district, was represented at the meeting by Mr. and Mrs. Leland Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Symonds, Mrs. Harold Spears, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Freund and their son, Dwight, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Andrews and Mrs. Gerke.

The Arboretum director, Dr. Wene, presented a brief summary of what has been accomplished in the past 10 years. The foundation supports projects for which public funds are not available such as the restoration of Queen Anne Cottage, Carriage House, the construction of buildings for orchid propagation and display houses, collection of rare horticulture books for the library and the establishment of a fragrance garden for the blind and handicapped.

District 12 has adopted a five-year plan to assist with the fragrance garden. To date, funds have been raised for the audible tape recorder and a foundation for the garden.

Mrs. Frank Bertholet, past director of District 12 and chairman of the forthcoming benefit, has announced the day's festivities will begin at 10 a.m. with a tour of the gardens.

Those wishing to play cards will meet in Hospitality House at 10:30 a.m. and a salad lunch will be served at 12:30 p.m. A fashion show, with models from the various clubs in the district, will complete the day. All proceeds will go toward the development of the Fragrance Garden.

Ticket reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Gerke at ELgin 5-0174.

Robert Horton Heads Campaign For CF Research

The drive for research funds for the California Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation began this week in California with the appointment of Robert Horton, TV star of "Wagon Train," as honorary chairman for the state.

Unknown to medical science until 1938, Cystic Fibrosis is an incurable disease affecting children at birth. Most youngsters do not survive adolescence and 40 per cent of them never reach six years of age.

The tragic incidence is one in every 600 children born, which means 7,000 children born each year in the United States, has this dreaded disease.

According to Charles R. Hardison, chapter president, with research, the life-span of these tiny victims is gradually being extended. Much has been accomplished since 1938, but much more is needed to give these children a chance to live.

Donations may be sent in care of Mrs. T. M. Concidine, 135 E. Laurel or telephone, ELgin 5-0600.

Hospital Stay For Reg Barrett

On The Trails . . .

Don Benito Was Builder Of Path to Mt. Wilson

By Bill Work

Older than Sierra Madre itself, Mt. Wilson Trail still clings to the side of the Little Santa Anita Canyon, clearly visible to the people of our town.

For almost 100 years this trail has watched the valley grow. It has seen the poppy fields disappear and buildings take their place, a bitter fight for the water in the canyon, and the struggle of the pioneers to create this lovely town from the dust of our alluvial fan.

Few people who have lived in our town for a length of time can look at the old trail without a tug in their hearts as they remember the happy days and hours spent on this trail, playing in the tumbling stream, and breathing deeply of the clean, smog-free air.

MANY WISH once again they could wander this trail, even if only as far as the stream. But the historical trail is about gone now. Like a ghost of a different age, it lies crumbling in the sun. There is not even a marker to tell of its past.

Benjamin D. Wilson, affectionately called Don Benito, arrived in Los Angeles in 1841. He was a great developer and a most influential citizen. Although he did not start the wine industry, he was the one who put it on a commercial basis.

Early in 1864 Don Benito

a little past Orchard Camp, and they decided to go on to the top without the benefit of a trail.

They followed a well-beaten bear path to a spring just west of the summit, and here they camped for the night.

The following morning just below their camp they found the ruins of two log cabins, all except the lower logs had been burned. Yet by the type of construction they must have been built by Americans.

Early history tells us that bandits and horse thieves infested the San Gabriel Valley from 1835 to 1875. Much stolen stock was taken by blacksmith shops and a chicken house, all built of timbers and long split shakes.

Rev. Armin Hesse Plans Series Of Sermons on Old Testament

Following his practice of previous years, Rev. Armin Hesse of Faith Lutheran Church, 835 Hastings Ranch Dr., announced that he will again present a special series of messages during the non-festival half of the church year which begins this Sunday.

His first series of summer sermons will consist of nine Sunday morning messages from the Old Testament Book of Esther. In introducing this pulpit program the local clergyman stated:

"Many recognize this book of the Bible as the one in which the name of God is not mentioned even once. But the book is filled with events which display the providence and deliverance of the Lord. It spreads out before us in 10 chapters the scope of God's deliverance for which we must pray more seriously and work more energetically in these critical days. It shows us what is meant, included and implied when we ask, 'Deliver us from evil!'"

The subject of the 10:30 Sunday morning sermon will be "Deliver Us From Excesses!" Holy Communion will be celebrated in this service.

The pastor also announced that the bi-monthly meeting of the Voting Assembly will be Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, with Edgar Pilschke of Sierra Madre, president of the congregation, presiding.

Church Family Night Planned By Congregational

June Family Night, to be held at the Congregational Church Wednesday, June 11, will feature talent from the church and community.

Consensus, one of the women's auxiliary groups of the church, will be in charge of the program, and a varied array of talent is expected. The supper begins in Pritchard hall at 6:15.

Friends and neighbors are invited to attend. Bring a hot dish, and salad or dessert. The Fellowship Committee of the church will provide coffee, cream and sugar.

RICHARD L. GLENDON of Los Angeles has been named to the Christian Science Board of Lectureship at the Annual Meeting of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. A Christian Science practitioner, he has served as moderator recently on several television programs in the nation-wide series, "How Christian Science Heals."

Graduation Exercises Set By Temple

The annual commencement exercises of the Foothill Jewish Community Center of Temple Beth Israel will be held at the Temple on Sunday, June 8, at 10 a.m.

Nathan Chroman, principal of the Sunday School, will present the awards and certificates for excellence in scholarship and attendance. Invocation will be given by Miss Lynne Weisman and prayer for government by Howard Schaefer. Rabbi Charles Steckel, spiritual leader of the Temple, will preside.

RABBI STECKEL will conduct Friday evening services at 8 o'clock June 5 at the Temple. He will be assisted by Cantor Salo Blumenthal. Topic of the sermon will be "Ethics of the Fathers." Hosts for the Oneg Shabbath following the services will be Cantor and Mrs. Blumenthal. Sabbath services are at 9 a.m. June 7, conducted by Rabbi Steckel.

THE MEN'S CLUB of Foothill Jewish Community Center Temple is sponsoring the annual picnic for all Sunday School pupils and their parents. It will be Sunday, June 8, at 11:30 a.m. at Arcadia Park.

THE SECOND annual "Shavuoth Dance" for boys and girls of confirmation age (13 to 17), sponsored by Jewish Bureau of Education, will be at Whittier Jewish Community Center, 1564 Hawes St., Whittier, on Saturday, June 7, at 8 p.m.

For further information call Dr. and Mrs. Dave Splaver, chairman of the Board of Education of Foothill Jewish Community Center, at Hillcrest 7-8378, or Mrs. Ann Baron at Hillcrest 7-7105.

Shepherd of the Hills

United Lutheran Church Upper Room, 270 W. S.M. Bl. "Blessed are your eyes, for they see; and your ears, for they hear."—read Matthew 13:1-23.

A YOUNG GARDENER in our town in Wisconsin became a volunteer fireman, but was so busy weeding a lawn one day that he failed to hear the fire siren, and missed his chance to help save the whole community.

OUR MINDS can be so set on other thoughts that we fail to see or hear. There were many who saw Jesus without recognizing Him. Many heard Him without believing. At first, only His disciples seemed to understand. For that reason, their eyes and ears were called blessed.

THE SAME can be said about us. If we recognize Christ and believe His teachings, we too are blessed. We live in such a busy age, it is easy to fail to see or hear the things that really matter.

MOST THINGS that take up so much of our time will not last. Only our spiritual life is eternal. If we nurture the spiritual seeds (God's Words) in our life, we grow spiritually as well as physically and materially.

JUST AS WE SEE flower seeds at our nurseries, so we hear spiritual seeds in our churches.

TODAY'S SEED—We cultivate our own Garden of Eden in Heaven by the earthly care we give to the spiritual seed that falls into our ears.

Shepherd of Hills Plans Worship and Picnic Sunday

An outdoor worship and picnic will be held by Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church this Sunday, June 8, at Arcadia Park, Huntington Dr. and Santa Anita Ave.

This will be the first time that the young congregation, which began here last fall and was organized May 11, will be worshipping in Arcadia.

SERVICES are usually held in the Upper Room of the Woman's Clubhouse in Sierra Madre, but there will be no worship there this Sunday. Instead, a combined Sunday School and Church service will be offered at 10:30 a.m. in the park. Any one desiring a ride to the park is to be at the Woman's Club parking lot at 10 a.m.

Sunday's sermon will be "A Tide of Strength" and the Bible discussion will cover the second and third chapters of the Book of Acts, said Rev. Ray E. Hansen, pastor.

The picnic will begin after the worship. Those attending are to bring a basket lunch. Tables and benches, napkins, coffee, fresh lemonade and ice cream will be provided by the church.

GAMES for all ages, tennis, golf and baseball will be included in the entertainment. In charge of games is Arthur G. Albertson and the Sunday School staff including Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Van Nice, Mrs. Ray E. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Horn, Mrs. Walter D. Boone, Miss Marsha Lister, Don and Kathy Chambers.

Park arrangements are handled by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Hilgertner, Mr. and Mrs. Rollo Pickford and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Abbe. Mrs. Wilma Brown and Miss Georgia Brown are the coffee makers, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Heimbrich, lemonade, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Erickson, ice cream. Signs are being made by Lynn Glorvig.

Playhouse Fare...

How Bad Can First Night Be? Answered in 'Bus Stop'

By Edward Voorhees

The question: How bad can the first-night production of a popular play be? was roundly answered by the opening performance at the Pasadena Playhouse of "Bus Stop" by William Inge, author of "Picnic" and "Come Back, Little Sheba."

Except for the lines and acting of little Sandy Horn, who had played the same part of Elma, the waitress, in the New York production of "Bus Stop," the whole first act as played here seemed completely unreal in action and dialogue.

THE SINGLE set is a street corner restaurant in a small town 30 miles west of Kansas City. It is 1 a.m. of a March night, and the bus, headed west, is stalled temporarily by one of those sudden spring snow storms—this time until about 5:30 a.m., when the bus leaves.

At the lunch counter, Grace, the proprietor, whose husband had long ago run away, and her teen-age helper, Elma, an innocent romantic in love with love, are waiting for the bus passengers to come in.

It is obvious that Grace is waiting exclusively for Will, the driver. He is the first to appear, strutting like a rooster, while Grace preens and keeps her guard up, for appearance sake.

Next enters Cherie, a night club dancer, with her suitcase which she hides under the counter. She is shivering with the cold and with terror of "that cowboy in the bus"—at the moment asleep.

Then appears a witty, poetry-quoting individual, middle-aged and amorously fond of young girls—such as Elma, to whom his gentle manner, his lines from Romeo, and finally his confession, in his cups, that he is a Rhodes Scholar, a Harvard Ph.D., and an ex-Professor of Literature, adds up to her beau ideal, with halo.

MEANWHILE, Carl, the genial local sheriff, has strolled in, followed by Virgil from the bus, one of the palling cowboys, carrying a guitar which he proves to be utterly unable, but willing, to play.

And now—yes, you have guessed it!

Enter the hero: rootin' tootin' cowboy, Bo Decker, age 19 or 20, with all his hackles up, and red! He immediately resumes his campaign of love, begun in the bus, makes a flying tackle at the terrified and resentful Cherie, mauling her to the edge of mayhem, while he loudly declares that he loves only her and "Yor gonna follow me back to Montana and marry up!" This is well, nigh the most remarkable stage scene this side of the burlesque mellerdrammer of the darker '90s. All because it's the boy's first gal.

From here on, almost anything could happen, in real life; but actually, everything remains in the groove of the obvious. First Virgil, with words, then the sheriff intervenes, to protect Cherie from the rampant Bo; the sheriff outspurs him, and hustles him through the swinging doors onto the front porch, whence noises of a sound drubbing float in. Then silence.

Cherie sinks into a chair at a little table (center) and soon thinks herself to sleep. Grace, after announcing that she has a "terrible headache," disappears up the stairway to her apartment. Will, the bus driver, is nowhere in sight, but much later comes down the same stairway.

AT THE counter, Dr. Lyman, drunker by the minute from his hip-flask, gets Elma's consent to dine with him in a neighboring town where she is to attend an evening concert, but suddenly, whether from a twinge of conscience, or too many swallows from the flask, or both, he interrupts his smooth-running seduction of the adoring young Elma, makes a dash for the couch, and promptly falls asleep.

Then, one by one, all the missing characters return to the room. Bo is wearing a three-inch adhesive tape on one wrist, but is otherwise undamaged as to face or clothing—much to the disappointment of some of the audience. And though he is a little quieter now in speech he seems no wiser for quite a long time. But

June is probably one of the most nostalgic months of the entire year. No one ever thinks of a bride in connection with January, but come June everybody gets misty-eyed and yearns for their wedding dresses all buried in moth crystals and carefully packed away.

Come June, we have our graduates. For those getting out of high school, the world is before them. For some it will be a limbo between college. Others will grow up right away and go to work. They have finally reached the point in their lives where they are adults, able to make their own decisions and surely wise in the ways of the world. And those completing their college education—they are ready, yes, eager, to straighten out the mess that their elders have placed this world in. How wonderful it must be to be that young, that zestful, and that undisciplined. In those youths lies the hope and the future of our world of tomorrow.

MR. AND MRS. Larry Garland of 1520 Old House Road returned last week from a four-day vacation in San Francisco. They went up principally to attend the wedding of an old college friend.

SPEAKING of San Francisco, Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Gesswein of 1025 Sierra Madre Villa spent five days there attending the Billy Graham Crusade. Billy Graham is an old friend of the Gessweins.

MR. AND MRS. Robert Griswold Jr. of 1215 Sierra Madre Villa had a group of 50 people in last week to view some slides of the South Sea Islands. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kistner had just returned from a year's trip on their boat from there. The party included a large group from Amesbury and Ross as well as many other mutual friends. Mrs. Griswold served a late buffet after the slides.

MR. AND MRS. Edward Meyer of 3110 Meyer Lane were also among the observers this week. They had Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Furstenberger for dinner. The Furstenbergers just returned last week from Hawaii and were more than eager to share their experiences and their pictures.

THE JOHN FRICKE family of 3366 Barhite spent the Memorial Day weekend in Ensenada. They stayed at Hussong's Motel and had a wonderful vacation.

DR. C. L. SCHUSTER of 1523 Sierra Madre Villa returned this week from Pittsburgh. He attended the assembly and historic merger of the two factions of the Presbyterian Church. They were formerly the Presbyterian Church in U.S.A. and United Presbyterian Church. They will now be known as the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Although rain poured down upon them as the procession was in progress, they continued without pausing, letting nothing dampen this fine procession.

THE MESITA ROAD gang stayed up on the hill swimming and eating, working a little in the garden, running over to Little League games, swimming again, eating again, etc., all through the weekend.

MRS. H. C. TUMILTY of 1405 Serra Madre Villa could well qualify as a guide on interesting places to see in Southern California. For the past month she has been accompanying her mother, Mrs. Norman Benedict, and her aunt, Mrs. Mabel Coleman, both from Pittsburgh, on a guided tour around our Southland. They have had a wonderful time and are leaving very regretfully tomorrow.

Garden Notes . . .

Dwarf Citrus Make Ideal Tubbed Plants

Modern gardeners can get an abundance of citrus fruit from little space because of the successful development of true dwarf citrus trees. The California Association of Nurserymen suggests that gardeners visit local nurseries to learn the species best suited to each locale.

At maturity dwarf citrus trees reach a maximum of 8 feet in height with a comparable branch spread. The crop yield is large and luscious even when the trees are quite young. Dwarf trees make excellent tubbed plants for porch or patio. Such tubbed plants generally do not grow as large as trees planted in the open ground.

ALL VARIETIES of citrus are available in dwarf form, ranging from the very familiar Eureka and Meyer lemons to recent citrus developments such as the novelty Calamondin with its small 2-inch bright orange fruit.

Types of citrus vary widely in their tolerance for cold. The hardiest types include Kumquats, mandarin oranges and lemons. These may bear choice fruit even in areas of the state usually regarded as out of the citrus belt. More work in climate control may be required to get good fruit from grapefruit, lemons or limes.

In addition to their value as fruit bearing trees, dwarf citrus are lovely ornamental trees. Deep green foliage and attractive habit make them distinctive garden additions even if the weather is unfavorable to the fruit. Dwarf citrus are among the very best tubbed specimens because of their year-around attractiveness and the fragrance of the flowers and fruit.

THERE IS no special planting season for trees and shrubs in California. Because of a wonderful mild climate and the helpfulness of plant specialists, home gardeners may add to garden plans all year long.

A wide selection of trees and shrubs grow in containers at nurseries throughout the summer and fall, advises the California Association of Nurserymen. This fortunate situation enables gardeners to gauge fully the attractions a particular plant item will add to the landscape. For blooming plants such as roses and citrus, seeing the color and shape of buds and blossoms is far more meaningful than thumbing through catalogs.

CONTAINER-GROWN plants may be set out immediately after they are brought home or they may be kept in their cans for weeks. Gardeners intending to plant immediately should have the cans clipped at the nursery. Once a container

Raymond Basin Story Typical of Southern California

(This is the second and final article on the problems we face as a result of our diminishing water supply, with particular emphasis on the Raymond Basin from which Sierra Madreans receive their water. The articles are by Max Bookman, district engineer, State Department of Water Resources.)

By Max Bookman

Concern about the diminishing water supplies in the Raymond Basin prompted the City of Pasadena in 1937 to initiate litigation against the City of Alhambra in the Superior Court of Los Angeles County to determine its ground water rights.

Both cities were pumping from the same basin; and since more than two dozen water rights holders, in an area stretching from La Canada to Arcadia, were pumping from the identical source, most of them automatically became parties to the suit.

AT THAT TIME, as today, some of the better and certainly the cheapest water was found underground. Supplemental water from the Colorado River was not then available, as the Metropolitan Water District's aqueduct was a thing of the future; and even had it been built, water users would have preferred to exploit the easily accessible sources first.

In February, 1939, at the request of the majority of the 31 parties involved in the Raymond Basin litigation, the State's Division of Water Resources (now the Department of Water Resources) was appointed "referee" and given the job of investigating the underground water basin and reporting its findings to the court.

Thirteen engineering consultants, representing parties in the court action, collaborated with the Division during the hydrologic study that followed. The investigation took four years to complete, and went into all available historical records of water use, water rights, and water depletion in the area.

On the basis of a report which the Division of Water Resources submitted to the litigants and the court in July, 1943, the court handed down a judgment in December, 1944, allocating water rights in the Raymond Basin. The court appointed the Division of Water Resources as "watermaster" to protect the rights of all parties.

ber, 1944, allocating water rights in the Raymond Basin. The court appointed the Division of Water Resources as "watermaster" to protect the rights of all parties.

SINCE 1944, the Division (now Department) of Water Resources, through an engineer serving as Watermaster, has regulated ground water extractions in the Raymond Basin Area according to the terms of the judgment.

Essentially, water from the Basin is rationed to all parties in such a way that average annual extraction does not lower the water table any further. Rationing still continues today, and provisions exist for the pooling and redistribution of water which exceeds the needs of any party. In 1950, as the result of continued studies and accurate record keeping, everybody's share of water was increased approximately 30 per cent.

We now come to the crucial fact affecting Sierra Madre. Underground water in the Raymond Basin has a natural tendency to flow very slowly from west to east through the sands and gravels.

If the water table at the eastern end of the basin, where Sierra Madre is located, were to fall considerably below the water table farther west, the eastward flow would speed up, and the water table in the central and more westerly sections of the basin would be lowered excessively.

TO PROTECT water users farther west, the court defined a potential critical situation. This situation would occur if ever the water table at a key group of Arcadia city wells inside the Raymond Basin (west of the intersection of Orange Grove and Santa Anita Aves.) should drop lower than 110 feet below the local ground surface.

uation. This situation would occur if ever the water table at a key group of Arcadia city wells inside the Raymond Basin (west of the intersection of Orange Grove and Santa Anita Aves.) should drop lower than 110 feet below the local ground surface.

If this should happen, and if at the same time the water table in the immediate vicinity of Rosemead Blvd. and the Raymond Fault, between Foothill Blvd. and the Raymond Fault, were higher than at the Arcadia wells, pumping in the entire eastern unit would have to be reduced about 40 per cent. Due to the recent prolonged dry spell these crucial water levels were reached last year.

A 40 per cent cutback of their water supply would work a great hardship on the citizens of Sierra Madre. Located entirely within the Raymond Basin near its eastern tip, they have no other source of water. They are not affiliated with the Metropolitan Water District. But the City of Arcadia, lying squarely across the Raymond Fault line, pumps its domestic water supply from wells both inside and outside the Basin. There are no legal limitations to the amount of water Arcadia may pump outside the Basin, although even today actions are being taken to initiate such limitations.

IT IS, therefore, logical that Arcadia could temporarily furnish not only her own residents but the residents of Sierra Madre as well, with water obtained outside the Raymond Basin if ever pumping inside the Basin should have to be drastically cut back. This the City of Arcadia was and is willing to do. An agreement to that effect was entered into by the two cities.

As it turned out, the agreement has remained on paper only. Above-normal precipitation, aided by Sierra Madre's artificial ground water recharge operations (spreading grounds), has temporarily at least—raised the water levels of the eastern unit of the Raymond Basin above the critical point. In fact, water levels have recovered 32 feet over levels of a year ago.

It is interesting to note that, until recently, water consultants had held that the City of Arcadia should have enough water for its foreseeable needs unless its boundaries change. But they reckoned without the possibility of a pumping limitation, made necessary by an extended drought, being imposed by court decree. Such decrees may become more widespread as time goes on.

THE RAYMOND Basin story is typical of Southern California in many ways. The residents of Sierra Madre, even had they been required to pay more for water than their neighbors in Arcadia—would still have enjoyed a cost and quality advantage over water imported by aqueduct from the Colorado River.

While the day of resort to other water has been put off, the long-term records show that water tables are still going down.

Perhaps in the future these people and the citizens of Arcadia, too, may have to buy Metropolitan District water.

And beyond that? Well, as Southern California's population continues to grow, they may all one day be purchasing water brought down from the Feather River or some other Northern California watershed.

Leukemia Is More Than Simple 'Cancer of Blood'

(Presented as a public service by the Foothill District of the Los Angeles County Medical Association.)

Leukemia is sometimes called "cancer of the blood." It is more than that. Leukemia is a fatal disease of the organs that make blood, such as the lymph glands and bone marrow.

Normally these organs make only as many white and red blood cells as the body needs. In leukemia this blood formation gets out of control and there is tremendous overproduction of white cells.

The white cells do not mature and they are not able to fight infection. The number of red cells is reduced and the patient becomes anemic. The blood does not clot properly. Patients may thus die from infection, from hemorrhage, or from damage to vital organs.

Leukemia can be chronic, acute or subacute. There are two kinds of chronic leukemia. One begins in the bone marrow and the other in the lymphatic system. The bone-marrow type occurs most often in people 35 to 45 years of age, and the lymphatic type is found most frequently in those 45 to 54 years of age. Chronic leukemia affects more men than women. It rarely occurs in children.

Chronic leukemia comes on slowly without warning. Many cases are discovered accidentally during examination for some other condition. Even after changes in the blood are noticed, several years may pass before significant symptoms appear in the body.

One early change is an enlargement of the blood-forming organs, such as the spleen. As the spleen gets bigger, the patient may feel a sense of fullness or pain in the upper left side of the abdomen. Other symptoms may be sweating, skin eruptions, anemia, hemorrhages, nervousness, and loss of weight.

Acute leukemia most often affects children. It usually begins suddenly and progresses rapidly, often with a sore throat or other symptoms of a cold. The glands and spleen and liver may rapidly enlarge. The child bruises easily.

THE BEGINNING of acute leukemia can also come on slowly. In these cases pallor and bone pain are the main symptoms. Without treatment the patient lives only a short time—a few weeks or months.

Subacute leukemia has some of the characteristics of both chronic and acute leukemia. The course it follows is harder to predict.

Positive diagnosis of leukemia is made by microscopic study of the blood and bone marrow.

Until recently there was little that could be done to change the course of acute leukemia. New hope has come with the use of certain drugs, with blood transfusions when necessary, and with antibiotics to help combat infections.

WHILE NO cures have been reported, there has been encouraging temporary improvements with these new developments. Some patients are restored to apparently normal health for many months.

Even though leukemia cannot be cured, early detection and prompt treatment will make the patient more comfortable. Because changes in the body that come with chronic leukemia often do not appear right away, it is especially important that adults have a physical examination every year.

Desserts Only One of Mrs. Tumilty's Talents

By Toni Maurin
SYcamore 7-9634

It would be difficult to determine just what branch of cooking Mrs. Barney (Mary) Tumilty of 58 W. Carter, excels the most in. I think she enjoys preparing unusual desserts more than the rest, but I would never limit her to that category. These desserts she has given me take a little time to prepare but the results are well worth the efforts involved.

ALMOND BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

Crust
1 cup unblanched almonds ground
1/4 cup melted butter
1/4 cup granulated sugar
Combine almonds with sugar and butter. Pack firmly into 9-inch greased pie tin on bottom and sides. Bake at 350° F. for about 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove and cool.

Filling
1 tbs. butter
3/4 cup hot water
1/4 cup cold water
1 pint vanilla ice cream
2/3 cup brown sugar firmly packed
1 envelope Knox gelatin
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
Melt butter and then add brown sugar and cook over low heat, stirring until sugar is melted. Slowly add hot water, stirring till sugar is completely dissolved. Soften gelatin in cold water and then dissolve in hot syrup. Add salt. Cool slightly and then add ice cream in spoonfuls. Stir until all is melted. Add vanilla. Cool until mixture is mound on a spoon (quite thick). Keep folding occasionally. Pour into cold pie crust. Chill until firm. Pie may be garnished with whipped cream and toasted almond halves when serving. Serves six.

STRAWBERRY CREAM CHEESE PIE

Crust
Crush 12 Zwiebach into crumbs. Mix with 3 tbs. butter and 1 tbs. sugar. Pat into sides and bottom of 9-inch pie pan.

Filling
Mix till smooth by hand or with a blender the following:
1 lb. cream cheese
2 well beaten eggs
1/2 cup sugar
2 tsp. vanilla
Pour into crust and bake 35 minutes at 350° F. In the meantime blend 1 cup of

Glaze
Using a pint of strawberries slice and arrange some of the berries on top of chilled pie. Crush remaining berries and put in a pan with 3 tbs. water and 1/4 cup sugar. Simmer for 10 minutes and strain. Add 1 1/2 tsp. corn starch mixed with 1 tbs. cold water. Cook again, stirring until thick. Cool slightly and pour over berries on pie. Chill for at least one hour before serving, and don't plan on serving more than six.

COFFEE TORTONI

1 egg white
1/8 tsp. salt
1 cup whipping cream
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tbs. instant coffee
2 tbs. sugar
1/4 cup sugar
1 pkg. (about 1 cup) toasted almonds
Combine egg white with coffee. Beat till stiff. Add 2 tbs. sugar. Beat till stiff and satiny.
Beat whipping cream with

1/2 cup sugar and vanilla. Fold with nuts into egg mixture. Pour into eight 2-ounce paper cups. Add few almonds on top for decoration. Freeze. Easy and different.

CHOCOLATE FILLED ANGEL CAKE

Bake angel food cake. When cool slice cake into three layers. Frost layers and outside with the following and refrigerate until ready to serve.

Frosting
Mix together the following ingredients and allow to stand in refrigerator overnight before whipping.
1 1/2 pints whipping cream
1/2 cup powdered sugar
6 tbs. Droste cocoa
When ready to whip until stiff add 1 1/2 tsp. vanilla. Whip and frost as directed.

MRS. TUMILTY is a seemingly easy-going person, but she is an extremely active woman in civic affairs. This year she is serving as president of the Sierra Madre Republican Club. In addition to the exacting duties that office demands, she is serving on the board of Girl Scouts, as well as being the leader of Girl Scout Troop 526. She is also the director of the Needlework Guild. She formerly acted on the board of Friends of the Library. She has long been a member of the Sierra Guild of the Children's Hospital, working tirelessly in their behalf. Their 12-year-old daughter, Cynthia, is in the seventh grade at the Ascension Parish School.

Mr. Tumilty is vice president of Rounds Floor Covering in Pasadena. He is first vice president of the East Pasadena Kiwanis Club. I might add that he, too, has worked hard and long, to the point of breaking an ankle, for the Sierra Guild of the Children's Hospital.

HONOR G-MAN . . . FBI director J. Edgar Hoover receives award for American youth betterment from National Sales Executives who gave $1,000 scholarships to Whit Smith, St. Louis; Nancy Simpson, Oakland, Cal.; Pearl Hill, Charlotte, N. C.; Bob McCoy, Ft. Worth.

CIVIL WAR? . . . Algerian youths at war memorial demonstrate in favor of Gen. Salan's French army coup which set up "committee of public safety" in opposition to rule from Paris.

VALEDICTORIAN
Henry Halsey Knapp, 18-year-old John Muir High School senior, was named valedictorian of the 628 Muir graduates. A native of Englewood, N.J., Knapp is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Knapp, 2145 N. Grand Oaks, Altadena. He is a graduate of Elliot Junior High School.
